

Medicine Grand Rounds

Friday – February 15, 2019

8:00AM – 9:00AM – Fukushima Auditorium

“Best Practice Updates in Recent GI Controversies”

Justin Kupec, M.D.

Assistant Professor and Fellowship Program Director
Section of Digestive Diseases
West Virginia University

Target Audience:

Department of Medicine faculty, residents, and students, as well as other clinical departments, practicing clinicians, and nurses

Objectives:

Following this conference series, participants should be able to:

- Discuss pertinent medical topics in the areas of pathogenesis, diagnosis and therapy that will be clinically relevant and not previously widely known that could improve patient outcomes.
- Discuss clinical and scientific research that may or may not be clinically relevant, but that will be of interest to the medical community and which may improve professional competence.
- Describe medical education and the practice of medicine as it develops in other areas of the country which may help to improve performance.

Continuing Education Credit:

The West Virginia University School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The WVU Office of CME designates this live activity for a maximum of 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit[™]. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Disclosure: All those in a position to control content of this program have indicated that they have no relevant interests to disclose.

For any questions or concerns regarding Medicine Grand Rounds, please contact Erica Lippencott at

Erica.lippencott@hsc.wvu.edu